Dear Sir or Madam,

In 2015 Sep, GE has announced a new energy-centric company called Current, Powered by GE, that will become the corporate home of the company's commercially-targeted LED lighting products along with other energy centric products and technologies including solar, energy storage, onsite power generation, and electric vehicles.

Current powered by GE will carry all the professional LED lighting fixture under GE brand with global footprint. Current shares are so far totally owned by General Electric Company and is covered under legal entity of GE Commerce (Shanghai) Co., Ltd. In Asia.

In Asia, Current will proactively work with key customers and continue the efforts to service our customer in LED lighting and energy management solution offering through our channel partners to distribute product in the region.

Going forward, we have appointed Midwest Green Sdn. Bhd. as our regional channel partner to offer GE LED lighting fixture to key customer assigned and approved by Current in South East Asia to help our strategic customer to materialize total solution of energy saving and sustainability program in the future.

Your understanding will be appreciated.
